

AMERICANS BITTER OVER MISUSE OF RED CROSS EMBLEM

Officers Say All Stories About German Army's Devilish and Inhuman Acts Are True—Germans Refuse to Respect Red Cross At Any Time—Medical Officers Believe Anything Against the Hun.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 1. (Mail)—Misuse of the Red Cross emblem by the German army is bringing comment from American officers in position to know what is being done. A lieutenant in the medical corps and an infantry officer assert that "all the stories told about German army's devilish and inhuman acts are true."

"Taught to respect the Red Cross flag, American troops were led into many an ambush by Boche trickery in the display of this insignia. And what has incensed the Americans the most is the fact that the Germans refused to recognize the Red Cross emblem at any time."

"Before going to the front I was inclined to doubt some of the stories being circulated about the Germans," said the medical officer, "but after one month in the front lines I can believe anything that is said of them. They are as guilty of inhuman and barbarous acts themselves as they refuse to respect the use of the Red Cross by the Allies. Their use of the Red Cross insignia is one of the biggest crimes they ought to be made to answer for after the war."

One of the tricks used by the Boche was to plant a Red Cross flag in the tower of a church in a village in the path of the advancing Americans. Respecting it, the infantry would not call for any concentration of artillery fire on these buildings.

The American troops upon taking one particular village advanced upon a church, from which was displayed a Red Cross flag, without suspecting any trick. When they were within short range, a murderous machine gun fire was poured into their ranks from the windows and towers of the church. When the Americans finally gained the interior, they found six machine guns, manned by a platoon of sturdy Boches—not a sign of any hospital or dressing station. Needless to say no prisoners were taken.

Heroic Italian Army Aided By a Fine Navy

ROME, Tuesday, Nov. 5.—"The heroic Italian army, ably seconded by the navy, which played a greater part in obtaining victory than is generally supposed, have at last brought the Italian war to a successful and glorious conclusion," said Lieutenant Commander Rizzo to the Associated Press today. Lieutenant Commander Rizzo directed the daring raid into the inner harbor at Trieste in December last, when two Austrian battleships were sunk by torpedoes.

"At this hour," he continued, "when hopes of many years are about to be realized, it is interesting to look back and see the immense debt the entente owes to America. Without her moral support the allies might have given up hope. Without her food the allies might have been starved. Without her supplies and materials it might have been an impossibility to carry on the war. Thus Italy might never have had the chance to obtain the splendid victory of today."

TRADE PROBLEMS BEFORE COUNTRY

Sound National Maritime Policy Must Be Worked Out by Government.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Problems of international trade facing the United States after the war, including the need for a sound national maritime policy which would insure continued operation under the American flag of ships built for war emergency, were discussed here today at the annual meeting of the National Foreign Trade Council.

The council, organized in 1914 under the auspices of the American Manufacturers' Export Association, American Asiatic Association and the Pan-American Society of the United States, had at its meeting today manufacturers, farmers, bankers and transportation men from all parts of the country. James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, presided.

With his fellow members on the committee on merchant marine, P. A. S. Franklin of New York, and Robert Dollar of San Francisco, Mr. Farrell presented a report which asserted that, unless a national policy was adopted, "it may be set down as absolutely certain that the American merchant marine, rehabilitated with vast expenditure of capital and effort, as a war emergency measure, will again be dissipated under the operation of inexorable economic laws."

Asserting that private enterprise would refuse to invest the full $4,800,000,000 which it was estimated would have been expended in shipbuilding by the nation by the end of the war, the report continued:

"Manifestly the correct procedure is that indicated by the chairman of the shipping board in his suggestion that the valuation of the vessels be written down, and that a portion of their cost be charged off to war service. This procedure would be eminently just, as well as absolutely necessary to the permanent retention and operation of the vessels under our flag."

"The war service rendered by these vessels is of the highest character, not second to that of the guns and shells which they transport to the seat of war. But the shells are wholly written off; the entire cost is charged to the war service. Whatever valuation may be determined upon ultimately as fair and just these ships will represent a recovery of expenditure for the government impossible in the case of vast disbursements for munitions."

Just One of 'Em

I've travelled many thousand miles. I've been from shore to shore. I've seen the sights in many states, and hope that I'll see more.

Twice my delight to travel. In America 'twas great. To spend down in the Sunny South. A travelling in state.

My trips out to the Golden West are ones I'll long remember. And likewise one, away up North I made in cold December.

I've travelled through the busy East. To the great Atlantic's shore. My trips have all been pleasant. But wait, I'll tell you more.

In the army I enlisted. To do my bit in war. And since that time I've traveled. As I'd never done before.

In trips I made to different camps. The travel was no bad thing. But after leaving the dear old States. My experiences were quite sad.

For, after leaving Jersey's shore. To cross the briny deep. 5000 men, it seemed like more. Were huddled up like sheep.

3000 strong we walked the plank up. To that English liner. To do our bit as best we could. No thought would have been finer.

But after landing on the deck. Our troubles just began. Three flights of steps they led us down. To take us to our pen.

The pen was quite a work of art. Some crafty man designed six bunks. We must admit this true. To stand in space for two.

3000 strong we made this trip. Below the water line. Without a bit of light or air. When it was sleeping time.

It did not take the thirteen days. To make one sick at sea. In fact a few days travel. Made us sick as man could be.

3000 strong no longer. Instead 3000 weak. Of course you'll understand this. When you know we could not sleep. I've told you of the light and air. And of the sleep we never had. So now I'll tell you, on rough sea

HAD SUFFERED THIRTY YEARS

"There Is Nothing on Earth Like Tanlac," Says Thomas F. Arnott.

"Well, sir, a neighbor of mine put me onto this Tanlac a few weeks ago, and it is the finest thing I have ever run across in the sixty-seven years of my life," declared Thomas F. Arnott, of 134 South Ray street, Spokane, while in Murgitroyd's drug store recently.

"I have suffered for thirty years," he continued, "with a bad stomach and other troubles and spent a large part of what I made for treatments and medicines, but never did get any better until I began taking Tanlac. Everything I would eat hurt me and the gas on my stomach would rise up into my chest and cut my breath short. Sometimes my heart would beat so hard and fast that I would just have to gasp for breath. I was uneasy all the time for fear I had heart trouble. I would have blind dizzy spells when I could hardly stand on my feet. I also suffered with headaches and simply felt played out nearly all the time."

"I can now eat what I want without it hurting me for the first time in thirty years, and since my food digests and the gas has stopped forming on my stomach I don't have any more trouble with palpitation and shortness of breath. Why, before I took Tanlac the least exercise would completely tire me out, but now I can walk or work all day long and feel none the worse from it. I guess I have taken a barrel of medicines of different kinds and lived on a diet, almost starving myself, trying to get rid of my trouble, but I suffered just the same until I got Tanlac. So I know what Tanlac has done for me and I appreciate it enough to tell everybody about it. In my opinion there's nothing on earth like it."

Tanlac is sold in Ogden by A. R. McIntyre Drug Co. Two busy stores.—Advertisement.

It made it twice as bad.

At meal times with our mess kits filled. And our mess java cups in hand. We'd try to climb these many steps. And find a place to stand.

To eat upon the open deck. It was the strictest rule. 3000 men to eat on deck. And not a single stool.

The task of creeping up these steps. Was quite an awful strain. To find a place to eat your meal. Was often sought in vain.

No sooner than you'd stop to eat. A noise would strike your ear. It was the M. P.'s gentle voice. "Hey, you can't stop here."

So on you'd move a step or two. The ship would pitch and roll. You'd lose your balance, spill your food. The floor it was your goal.

You'd reach your goal in record time. And get up feeling sore. You'd curse the Kaiser every breath. For causing this world war.

Our trip across the ocean. Filled with troubles such as these. Our thoughts were far from submergines. A-floating under seas.

We were a force combatant. A fighting all the while. But now that we have landed. We do not rue the day.

Another trip was made since then. That much reminds me of that pen. A trip across old Sunny France. To take us to the zone advance.

They huddled us in box cars. With two wheels and no axle. It was our pleasure thus to go. Upon the other side.

These cars were short and narrow. And had packs placed in them. Upon the door there was a sign. "Eight horses—forty men."

So forty men were placed inside. To start upon a three day's ride. No sleep at all for two more nights. To bring us closer to the fights.

These troubles, though we can't forget. Are things received with humor here. Our strength regained, our spirit true. We're ready now our work to do.

UNITED PRESS BLAMES ADMIRAL

Claims Commander at Brest Made Announcement of Signing Armistice.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The United Press today published this explanation of how it came to circulate yesterday its report that the armistice had been signed and that fighting had ended.

"NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Yesterday's announcement of the signing of the armistice between Germany and the allies was made by Admiral Wilson at Brest and was filed to the United Press in a cablegram from Roy W. Howard shortly before noon today."

"Practically at the same time another message from Howard was delivered to the United Press stating that Admiral Wilson made the announcement at Brest at 4 p. m., French time, but that later he was notified that it was not confirmable. This later message filed by Howard did not show, in the form in which it was delivered, whether it was sent yesterday or how long it had been held up."

"Howard's cablegram clearly showed that Admiral Wilson acted in good faith, stating that he supposed the announcement was official and therefore gave his approval to the filing of the message to the United Press in New York."

"The United Press today asked the government to ascertain how long Howard's message stating that Admiral Wilson authorized the announcement and also that he later was notified that it was unconfirmable were held up by the censors."

"There was reason to believe that the message stating that the news was unconfirmable was badly delayed in view of the fact that it was not received here until almost 24 hours after the original cablegram. The messages received today from Howard were as follows:

"United Press, New York.
"Paris—Urgent—Brest—Admiral Wilson who announced Brest news- paper 1600 (4 p. m.) armistice been signed, later notified unconfirmable meanwhile Brest riotously celebrating."

"Howard Simms.
"The other message read:
"United Press, New York."

"Brest—Urgent armistice bulletin based local announced (announcement?) by Admiral Wilson, admiral supposing official was filed with admiral's approval local newspaper bulletin Brest celebrated night long."

"Howard.
"It will be noted that the first message quoted was signed by the names of both Howard and Simms and was filed through the Paris office in the same form as the message received yesterday. In every way this first quoted message indicates that it was probably filed very quickly after the original bulletin."

Croatians Will Not Join In An Austrian Kingdom

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—A Swiss report that the Croatian parliament in Zagreb, capital of Croatia and Slavonia, had declared the Croats would join an Austrian kingdom, is denied by Dr. Bogumil Voynjak, member of the Jugo-Slav committee who says: "An 'Austrian kingdom' never existed and does not exist today, but the Croatian parliament undoubtedly declared for union with the ancient Illyrian kingdom, a creation of Napoleon I, which comprised Carniola, Carinthia, Gorizia-Gradisca, Trieste, Istria and Dalmatia. At all the localities except Trieste the Jugo-Slavs are in overwhelming majority.

"A sudden change in the policy of the Croats is out of question. The sacrifices of Croatia in opposing Austro-Hungarian tyranny were superhuman and the Croats have today no other ideal than the unification of the whole Jugo-Slav nation."

Mr. Palmer, who spoke before the University Extension society of Philadelphia, said the alien property custodian's office now has assumed control of nearly half a billion dollars worth of enemy-controlled or owned properties.
